

The Well of Truth

A short, easy-to-understand, how-to book for a better life.

Copyright © 2014 Mark Hastings

All rights Reserved.

Mark Hastings
655 Browns Valley Road
Corralitos, CA 95076
831.251.5045
drmarkhastings@gmail.com

For my love, I write this book to her first born, Nathaniel.

Forward

This is not intended to be a book on the extensively written about subject of positive thinking. This book is short, explanatory, and straightforward attempting to reveal this knowledge in the most concise manner. The intent is to demonstrate how correctly using conscious thought to refine the development of one's character, one will be able to, indirectly but surely, shape and facilitate all desirable circumstances in life. By learning and using this information one will gain the long held secret truth that allows one to be the complete master of their own destiny, creating what is desired and dismissing all that is undesired.

This volume has come forth, that it may serve the reader, by teaching the true undeviating law of the universe that can never be wrong; all pure good thought will produce good circumstances and all bad thought, of any kind will produce bad circumstances. Either way, thought creates all circumstances in one's life. After literally countless hours of concentrated thought, self-examination, trial and error, meditation, and prayer this simple truth, although difficult to apply, has come forth by analytical examination and proof through experience.

If thoughts do not stem from love, truth, and compassion and are not moral, decent, and upright they will fail to bring desirable circumstance.

If you, the reader, will honestly compare your thoughts to the purest and most respectable thoughts, using self-control to alter your thoughts to only ethical, moral, loving, true, innocent, and harmless thoughts, you will be astounded by your rapid transformation to all circumstances that are desirable. This information is nothing new. Every prophet, teacher, philosopher and sage has taught these same laws of the universe for centuries.

To those very few strong minded individuals who bravely invest the challenging yet necessary hours to honest, self-analysis of thought and self-control of thought, dismissing all that is weak, selfish, impure, and improper; these will be the enviable and fortunate ones who, by the great universal law, see amazing, immediate, and directly proportional improvements in circumstance.

The truth of the universe is quite simple; every person is the creator of their circumstance through the shaping of action brought forward by their own thoughts. Every thought, weather decent or corrupt produces and shapes circumstance justly rewarding with delight or displeasure. Every upright, moral, honorable, and kind thought will produce good action which in turn will create and reveal a desirable circumstance. Every immoral, corrupt, uncaring, selfish, weak, and depraved thought will, just as certain, produce and reveal an unpleasant circumstance.

Every person is a living, ever changing, composite of useful and tainted thoughts. Each creating for themselves the ever changing circumstances through the corruption or proper application of thought. Every grade of character is a result of this and all lives are slave to this very truth. Every shade of character is constructed from a mixture of the useful and unhelpful thoughts one allows. Those with mostly unwholesome thoughts live difficult lives of unwanted circumstance. Those with mostly useful thoughts live pleasant lives of fruitful opportunity.

One has only to understand this very truth to realize that every beautiful desirable thing, whether spiritual, intellectual, or material, is attainable through the diligent and wise use of thought. Whatever one dreams of and wishes for, one may have if they are committed to applying and practicing self-control and thought control.

Table of Contents

Success	7
You are what you think	7
Duplicity of thought	8
Justification	9
Prison of Thought	9
You Are What You Eat	11
Reality and Vision	11
Externalization of Circumstance	13
Awareness of Thought	13
Reactive Thinking	14
Resistance and Acceptance	15
Pitfalls in Thinking	16
Self-Entitlement and Effect on Harmony	17
The most powerful force on Earth	17
The Change	18
How to Change	19
Peace of Mind	21

Success

Every person desires success however, few ever stop to define personal success specifically. Many believe they understand success, however under close scrutiny; many have a superficial understanding of success. Many believe success is the accumulation of fortune or fame. This however is not so. Success is that which brings joy, peace of mind, serenity, and grace. These are eternal spiritual aspirations. In other words, you can take these with you.

The person that understands this eternal truth will be able to look back over their life with joy, understanding correct efforts in thought are forever blessed. Money, fame, prestige, and all material things cannot deliver peace of mind. These worldly ephemeral things can not lead to self-awareness and spiritual harmony. Many understand that to acquiring great wealth requires much focused thought and attention coupled with great self-sacrifice. Understanding and applying this is simple in the material world however, understanding and applying this truth in the spiritual world is much more difficult.

The superficial idea that making large amounts of money will relieve all suffering from external circumstance is incorrect. In reality, suffering is always the result of persistent unwholesome thought which produces unwanted circumstances that money cannot mitigate. The outward belief that fame, fortune, or any outside source could bring true happiness is derived from a false understanding. All material desires can only bring temporary pleasure, which by its very nature, will always require more. Since these pleasures can never bring true peace of mind, they fail to bring true success.

True success is only attained by those very few who understand a virtuous life filled with love, truth, and compassion and all that is pure will reveal the desired circumstances of true success; success in your relationships, success in your love, success in your career, success in your health, success in your purest most desired aspirations. Pure noble virtues persisted in will always deliver joyful circumstances. This will lead to ever lasting peace of mind, serenity and grace. These are the true jewels of success.

No one can attain these beautiful spiritual qualities until they understand, all thoughts forge all circumstances. More importantly, thought can and should be controlled. Once one understands that one can control thought, it becomes possible to begin to control thought. Controlled thought diligently applied to virtuous aspirations will always produce favorable circumstances. The abuse of thought will always lead to all unpleasant undesired circumstances.

To get your copy of The Well Of Truth by Mark Hastings, please <http://www.thewelloftruth.com>